Training for track athletes was discussed yesterday afternoon before a meeting of the Richmond Union High School Cross Country Running club by John Miller of the Richmond City Engineer's office.

Miller pointed out the various general rules of training, but stated that no definite training schedule could be laid down for all trackmen.

The members of the high school club yesterday afternoon decided to hold an impromptu run on the Richmond Union High school track this Friday afternoon following school hours.

Grover Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the club, presided at yesterday's interesting meeting.

Cagers At U. C. Start Practice

BERKELEY, Oct. 14.—University of California basketball players opened their fall practice season last night at Harmon gymnasium with three veteran guards on hand to form the nucleus of the 1931 quintet.

Captain Joel Corfield, guard, is not in college this fall, but will be ready for the season, and Carl Vondt and Bill Davis, both of whom won letters at guard last season, were on the floor. Corfield may be shifted to a place at forward, and the other places will probably be filled from the ranks of last year's brilliant freshman five.

The Bears will play their first practice game December 23 with Oregon State college. A game with McGill university's team scheduled for December 30 has been cancelled through the inability of the Japanese to arrange a proposed trip to the United States.

Hollywood Stars Defeated By Seals

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—UP.—Los Angeles beat Hollywood, 9 to 3, and the Missions defeated San Francisco's Seals, 6 to 2, in afternoon games of the Pacific Coast league today.

Since Hollywood clinched the first place in the league last season Sunday their was little sentiment in the Angels' triumph. The Stars virtually threw the game away by making five errors.

The Missions made their winning run in the fifth inning and scored three times in the seventh to take care of any emergency.

Angels Meet Stars In Series

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—UP.—The sports platform of Richmond will face each other in the league's opening game on Nov. 3. In the A division contest, the Santa Fe five and the McRacken Clothiers will tangle, while the Ben Malik aggregation and the Civic Center Tires will go into action in the B division battle.

Four outstanding cage squads will face each other in the league's opening game on Nov. 3. In the A division contest, the Santa Fe five and the McRacken Clothiers will tangle, while the Ben Malik aggregation and the Civic Center Tires will go into action in the B division battle.

The second group of cage contests will be played on the following Thursday night. The Odd Fellows and Studebakers of the A division will mix at that time, while the Mastercraft Roofers and the Garfinkles' quintet will provide the B competition.

At Junior High League games will this year be held in the Roosevelt Junior high school gymnasium every Monday and Thursday evening. The first game will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Prospects of one of the fastest and most exciting seasons ever staged here are already looming on the local basketball horizon.

Especially heavy competition is expected in the A division, which includes McRacken's, Santa Fe, Odd Fellows and the Studebakers. The McRacken team, although a new entry into City league competition, is composed largely of veterans of the Garfinkles squad, last year's champions. The McRacken team has a ready-made whipper up in good pre-season shape, and may be relied upon to do well in this season's scramble for the title. Included on the McRacken lineup are Ernie Barberi, Lee, Gillan, Al Huzelka, Dave Flynn, A. McLaughlin, Toots Hall and Millicovich.

Santa Fe Five

Santa Fe is entering this year's league in possession of an enviable reputation gained during its whirlwind career of last season. The Santa Fe athletes last year were up in the one-two, three class during the entire season. The Neary brothers, who entertained the bleachers with their special brand of footwork, will again be with the Santa Fe outfit, and with a strong nucleus of veterans, the Santa Fe five should be able to maintain its high standing in City league basketball competition.

Another squad of veterans that may be reckoned upon to figure importantly in the 1930 A division is the Studebaker quintet. The Studebakers were in the race for the title last year with Garfinkles and Santa Fe, and should repeat their triumphs this season. Bunny Muth, veteran center for the Studebakers, is directing the activities of the squad.

An unknown factor but a factor with great potential possibilities enters the local basketball fray in the form of the Richmond Odd Fellows. The lineup of their squad is

FAVORITES WIN IN WOMEN'S GOLF PLAY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14.—UP.—Favorites came through unscathed in the first round of match play in the national women's golf championship today, but found themselves facing real competition for the second round.

Simply because they are matched against each other, many players of national fame will be put out of the running tomorrow.

Maureen Orcutt, of Inglewood, N. J., Canadian champion, will play Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hard, veteran Philadelphia and three times national title holder.

Glenna Collett, defending the title for the third time, will face a sturdy young westerner, Miss Helen Lawson, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, medalist of the tournament, will oppose Mrs. Brent Potter, of San Jose, Calif.

The West's old sectional battle will be renewed when Mrs. Gregg Hurr and Mrs. Roy Green meet.

Fast Round

In the other two matches, Mrs. Leona Presler, of Los Angeles, at western home, will play Miss Hermine Wacker, Burlingame, Calif., and Mrs. Harley Higbie, Detroit, will oppose Miss Peggy Wattle, Buffalo.

Miss Orcutt appeared to take her golf very seriously today in defeating Mrs. Harry Grossman, of Los Angeles, 6 and 4. She started out strongly, winning the first four holes, but then relaxed and reached the tenth fourth up.

The match ended on the long 530-yard 14th, a jinx-hole, with a birdie five.

Miss Collett got off a beautiful drive on the 14th for 240 yards, then her second stopped 90 feet from the lip of the green, a pitch put her on. She was short on a 29 foot putt for an eagle but got her birdie five.

One Upset

Miss Collett was one over par for the nine with 40 and had a par 24 for the second five holes. She had four birdies today and was one stroke over par on five holes.

The only unexpected result today was Mrs. Brent Potter, of Los Angeles, eliminate Miss Edith Quiley, of Reading, Pa.

Mrs. Hurd played very steady golf to eliminate Mrs. Russell Fowles, of Long Beach, Calif., 6 and 4. The title holder of 1909, 1910 and 1924 seemed in championship form again.

Second Round

Mrs. Leona Presler lived up to early hopes that she would make a strong bid for the far west when she defeated Mrs. Milton Bernard, Oakland, 6 and 5.

Two matches went to the 19th green. Mrs. R. S. Edwards, Culver City, Calif., losing to Betty Lee, and Mrs. C. J. Woerner, Hollywood, losing to Miss Hermit Wacker, Burlingame, Calif.

The second round tomorrow will be over 18 holes.

U. C. Frosh 11 Meets Trobables

BERKELEY, Oct. 14.—University of California freshman gridiron will enter the first round of "little big three" competition next Saturday when they travel to Los Angeles to meet the Trobables of the University of Southern California.

Last year's Bear yearling team lost to the southern freshmen 21 to 19.

Teams of both institutions are this year reputed to be better than those of 1929, although the Bear babes have not been overly impressive in their first three tilts of the season. They figured in the games with San Mateo and Sacramento junior college teams, and lost to the St. Mary's freshmen last Saturday.

BEARS TO MEET OLYMPIC CLUB SATURDAY

BERKELEY, Oct. 14.—"If the Olympic club is to win from California next Saturday, they'll have to lick a varsity team."

In this terse manner Coach C. M. (Nuts) Price today turned aside reports of dubious origin that he would be content to pit third or fourth string men against the sublimely vain or less than average team that at this stage of the preparations for the Post-Olympic would be impossible to pick the men who will start next Saturday, but that his team will be picked from among the men who make up his two varsity teams.

Price feels that while the meeting with the Olympians has slight bearing on the Golden Bears' national or Pacific Coast standing, from a local viewpoint the game is important and the Bears can ill-afford to loose it, despite the fact that they must keep a wary eye on the University of Washington for their conference meeting at Seattle the week following.

The Californians were taking things easy today after their triumph of last Saturday over St. Mary's, the big team from the little college in the Moraga valley. Hank Schaldach, stellar half-back, and Captain Carl Handy, guard, are both recovering from injuries suffered during the tussle with the Gaels, but Ed Kirwan, quarter, is on an indefinite leave of absence to recover from a fractured rib.

Ted Beckett, guard, lost a tooth in the fray, and Bob Barrett is nursing a knee injury. Aside from the usual quota of bruises, the Bears are in fair condition and Price is assured that plenty of material will be available for Saturday's encounter.

The Olympic club is the oldest opponent of the Bear schedule. Since 1892, 49 games have been played. Of these Bear teams have won 34 and tied one.

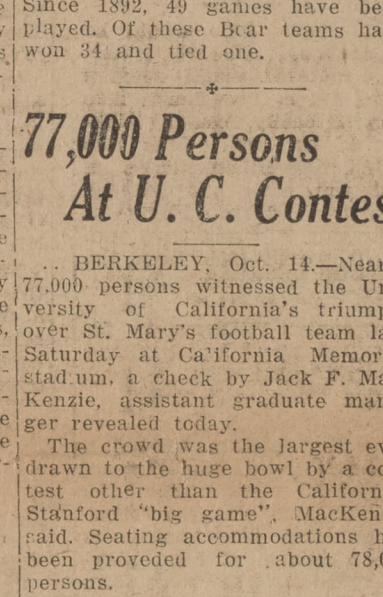

77,000 Persons At U. C. Contest

BERKELEY, Oct. 14.—Nearly 77,000 persons witnessed the University of California's triumph over St. Mary's football team last Saturday at California Memorial stadium, a check by Jack F. MacKenzie, assistant graduate manager revealed today.

The crowd was the largest ever drawn to the huge bowl by a contest other than the California-Stanford "big game". MacKenzie said. Seating accommodations had been provided for about 78,000 persons.

FOX

Without question, Zane Grey, author of "Last of the Duanees," Fox Movietone romance of the Southwest, coming to the Fox-California Theater tomorrow, is the most widely read author in America.

Mr. Grey recently celebrated the 20th anniversary of his association with his publishers, who have sold 11,228,399 copies of his books in this country alone. If each book is read by five people, his readers number 56,141,995, a total equal to half the population of the United States.

After Zane Grey gave up his dental office in New York to devote his entire time to writing, he wrote short stories, romances and verse for five years before he found a publisher he could interest in his works. During this time he occupied a little cottage on the banks of the Delaware river and he was on the verge of bankruptcy when he decided to move to Arizona and join Col. C. J. (Buffalo) Jones, one of the characters of the West and last of the plainsmen.

In Arizona he wrote "Last of the Plainsmen," moving back East he wrote "The Heritage of the Desert," which marked the turning point in Grey's career. Since then he has become immensely wealthy. In comparison with the cottage at Lackawaxen, where "The Heritage of the Desert" was written, Grey's life now seems a princely one, with his ranches in the Tonto, his Indian pueblo home at Avalon, Calif., and his estate in Altadena.

George O'Brien, handsome young screen actor and Lucile Browne, winsome little blonde beauty of recent stage success, portray the leading roles in "Last of the Duanees," which was adapted for the screen by Ernest Pascal, who also wrote the dialogue. Myrna Loy and Walter McGrath also play featured parts with James Bradbury, Nat Pendleton, Lloyd Ingraham, Frank Campeau, Blanche Frederici, James Mason and William Robertson in the supporting cast. The picture was directed by Alfred Werker, who made many of the late Fred Thompson Western thrillers.

J. HAROLD MURRAY and Fifi Dorsay are starred in "Women Everywhere," which is now playing at the Fox-California.

FLIERS WILL CARRY NAVY PACT EAST

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 14.—UP—Two army airplanes landed here from Vancouver at 12:45 p. m. today, and will hop off for New York at 5:30 Wednesday morning carrying Japan's ratification of the London naval treaty signed by Emperor Hirohito of Japan.

The two fliers, Lieut. Ervin A. Woodring and William M. Caldwell, United States Army fliers, expect to reach New York with the ratification of the treaty sometime Thursday afternoon, after nineteen hours of flying plus stops for refueling.

As the weather is not now favorable for any kind of a flight from this territory due to a snow and rain storm which began about 3 o'clock, the fliers were forced to postpone their flight until early Wednesday morning. They had previously planned on taking off from here between 7:30 and 8 o'clock.

The route which the fliers are expected to follow will be from Victoria to Seattle, then south-east to Spokane, Wash., and from there to Boise, Ida., and Cheyenne, Wyo. Their route from Cheyenne was announced as indefinite, the fliers merely stating that they expect to follow a southerly course in order to get the best air route and then head north for New York.

The fliers will continue on their proposed route regardless of weather conditions, they said. The flight will not be a non-stop trip, but the two aviators refused to announce their refueling points.

There will be two planes making the trip, it was said, so that should one of them break down the other could pick up the ratification and continue on to New York, where it will be shipped to England.

Love, Thrills In New Film At Local Fox

"Women Everywhere," the Fox Movietone talking and singing romance of Morocco and the Foreign Legion, which opens today at the Fox-California Theater, is a colorful, fun, and convincing yarn of love and adventure in French North Africa—a credit, not only to its director, Alexander Korda, but to an altogether capable cast, headed by J. Harold Murray and Fifi Dorsay.

Dealing as it does with events of comparatively recent history, when France was struggling to subdue rebellious natives of its Moroccan colony, this movietone musical romance depicts the adventures of Murray as a Yankee sea captain, who is captured by the French while attempting to run a cargo of guns to the rebels. He is saved from death by Miss Dorsay, who is charming in her role as an entertainer in a Moroccan cafe.

Murray does a most admirable and convincing piece of acting in a somewhat difficult role, and he is in better voice than ever before. If such a thing is possible, in view of his last two productions, "Camelot" and "Married in Hollywood."

Other members of the cast, notably, George Grossmith, the famous English actor; Clyde Cook, Ralph Kellard and Rose Dione, gave splendid performances. Songs in the picture, words and music of which were written by William Kernell, are of the sort that audiences will be whistling long after leaving the theater.

Mexico Prepares New Penal Code

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 14.—UP—The newspaper El Universal today said that the commission drafting revisions of Mexico's penal code is considering the abolition of immunity now accorded as the man who sold him the guns with whom their spouses are unfaithful.

The present code also gives immunity to fathers and brothers who kill the betrayers of any feminine members of their families.

Check Wiper On Windshield Of Machine

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 14.—With California's rainy season approaching motorists were advised by the Division of Motor Vehicles today to inspect windshield wipers to see if they are working properly.

This simple little device, it was declared, if out of adjustment may mean the loss of one or more lives when a sudden storm finds the motorist with his view of the road obscured by raindrops.

"Try your windshield wiper out and see if it works before the rain starts," said the Division's bulletin. "The wiper mechanism may have cranked the connecting hose or any number of other things may have happened to it during the summer. This simple precaution may save your life."

"While you are thinking about it, have your lights checked for glare and your brakes adjusted for wet driving. Keep a set of chains in the car for your trip to the mountains over icy roads."

Woman Free In Slaying Of Husband

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—UP—Mrs. Florence Leeney, comely blond matron who claimed she shot her husband, Maurice Leeney, wealthy contractor, in self defense, was found not guilty of a charge of murder today by a jury of clerks and shopkeepers.

The pretty widow's attitude of unconcerned assurance was gone, however, as she left the courtroom in which she had spent eight hours a day for two weeks. Her only remark was:

"I'm really worried for the first time since Maurice died. I hadn't bothered much about the verdict, knowing they would acquit me. Now I wonder what effect this verdict will have on my two daughters."

Leeney was shot four times during a quarrel with his wife after a wild party at their home last New Year's night. Prosecutors claimed she shot him as he lay sleeping on a couch in the living room, his head covered with a bath robe.

Mrs. Leeney said that her husband had kicked and abused her for hours before she finally was forced to "beat him to the trigger" when he pointed a revolver at her and threatened to shoot.

Insull Predicts Better Times Soon

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—UP—Samuel Insull, chief executive of public utilities which operate in 30 states with market value securities of over $3,000,000,000, believes that the present business depression is only temporary.

Upon the eve of the assembling of industrial leaders to attend a conference on unemployment, Insull issued one of the year's most optimistic statements by outstanding figures in the world of finance.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Moores Marshall

A New Thing Under the Sun for Women

A FEW score of New York's self-supporting women entertained the other night, Miss Martha H. McClintock, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. It was estimated that the annual earnings of those at the dinner table totaled more than $500,000.

The director of the United States census recently made public the first 1930 summaries of the number and importance of women in paid occupations. The figures show that more than 10,000,000 women are actually engaged in trade or industry, and that of this number at least half a million control "big business" in this country.

Surveys demonstrate that women now comprise the majority of stockholders in several of the largest corporations. The Pennsylvania Railroad and American Telephone and Telegraph Company, according to their 1930 statements, show that more than half of their respective stockholders are women.

Here, it seems to us, is truly a new thing under the sun for the female sex. Never in any previous era of history were such large numbers of women not only economically independent but economically prosperous through their own efforts. Never at any time or in any land has there been anything to compare with the business achievements of the American woman of today.

Men and women alike have to admit—when they stop to think of it at all—that there is a marvelous development, thrusting itself almost daily into new channels.

For instance, the business woman is now to have her own magazine. There has just appeared on the news stands an admirably written, interesting, illustrated monthly magazine, Woman in Business, addressed primarily to women in the business world. The first issue contains action photographs showing women at their work in their offices or elsewhere, with interviews and discussions of such women and their achievements.

What women are doing in the business world and their amazing progress within the last few years originally gave impetus for founding the magazine, its directors admit. It is designed to furnish inspiration to the woman who owns her own business or is established professionally. Woman in Business will also offer useful suggestions to the young woman trying to decide what to choose for her vocation in life, and to the housewife who in increasing numbers is finding part time work in the business world.

Arthur M. Crumrine is editor of Woman in Business, and his staff includes Eleanor Ball, associate editor; Mary J. Green, Dorothy Mohr, Crete Cochran Dahl, Isabel Phillips, Margaret Watts, Anne Milton, contributing editors.

Another yardstick for measuring the importance of business women in modern life is suggested by Miss McClintock, president of their national federation.

"You can realize to the full," she points out, "how great this contribution is, if you will imagine the elimination for a twenty-four-hour period of all women working for salaries in your city. Without the modern business woman, business would be at a standstill."

What does she want from business, this new arrival? Miss McClintock interestingly sums it up.

"It has been a man's world for too long," she says. "In the past women were recognized only for what they could contribute to man's comfort and happiness. Now the situation is changed, but not reversed. Women are not asking men to support them, or to keep them wrapped in cotton wool. Instead they expect to use just as men do, the talent, the ability, the initiative each possesses; and to receive the just return for their efforts, in position and money, to which they are equally entitled."

What, finally, has the business woman to give business? Here is her national leader's answer.

"To the surface traits of good grooming, a pleasant smile, an approachable manner and energetic carriage—qualities bespeaking a woman whose resources can be civilized—must be added adequate training, ambition, vision. To succeed, a woman must know the fundamentals of her vocation, must have the will to work at it, and the vision of the larger opportunities that lie ahead."

"If the business woman also has the habit of health—which can usually be acquired—if she has a reasonable amount of leisure and a hobby that transforms that leisure into recreation, she is usually the woman who is the leader in her business, her family, her community."

The impartial observer, it seems to us, must admit that the number of such women in our communities steadily increases. To this observer, the death of Lord Birkenhead the other day recalls an utterance of his, two years ago, which could hardly be wider of the mark. What he said was:

"The incursion of women into industry and politics has failed, is failing, and must, of necessity, fail. Women in clerical work and the lower grades of industry are permitted to do a man's work because they do it more cheaply. One need not anticipate that women ever will fill any but a small proportion of the higher posts in industry, commerce and finance."

IMMUNITY

I am immune to speech of lonely years—Of bent regrets and bitter, wrinkled tears. For he can face the truth of tales oft told Who never makes his heart a purse for gold; And he who walks sedately with his pride Can feel no pain in love too long denied.

No one but love shall ever know the curve Of me—nor want of child shall avert Me toward the outlying aims of age—I seek the new, the untried path. When there comes one who dares be free, We two shall pierce all mystery.

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

WITH your kind permission I should like to make a few remarks to the young lady who graduated from college last June and who has entered the cruel world of business.

In the first place, it is very important that you do not confuse business with pleasure—that you do not confuse your business thoughts with your personal thoughts.

For instance, if some one is rude to you, that is not a personal matter, but a business one and should not cause you a second's worry.

THAT IS WHAT YOU GET PAID FOR.

It's all a part of the day's work and you will soon get used to things that jar you, much as you do to the bumps in the road when you are musing.

Above all, do not take things seriously. Do not let people get your goat in business.

And lastly, do not lose your temper—you are NOT paid for that.

Worth Remembering

You will find it much easier to put buttons in the buttonholes of starched garments if you just moisten the buttonhole a bit on the inside.

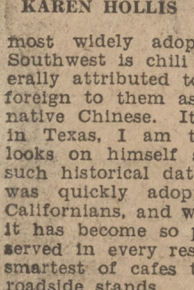

CA TISH CA DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

One of the great drawbacks to living in the East, almost any Westerner will tell you, is the scarcity of cooks who can concoct the highly-seasoned dishes of the Southwest. French cooking, New England cooking, Southern cooking and all the other famous cuisines seem positively pallid to them, and even Italian peasant cooking, with its pungent wealth of garlic and oil, is but a poor substitute to them for their own frijoles, tamales and enchiladas.

Perhaps the best known and most widely adopted dish of the Southwest is chili con carne. It is early attributed to Mexico, it is as foreign to them as chop suey is to the Chinese. Really, it is a native of Texas. I am told, by one who looks on himself as a specialist in such historical data. From there it was quickly adopted by Southern Californians, and within recent years it has become so popular that it is served in every restaurant from the smartest of cafes to the lowliest of roadside stands.

KAREN HOLLIS

In hot countries, highly-seasoned foods are popular the year around, but here such foods are favored only in cold weather. During these chilly, early fall days you may be seeking something different to serve for dinner, and chili con carne may be just the dish that will appeal to your family. Here is a recipe that appeals to Eastern as well as Western palates.

CHILI CON CARNE

1 cup kidney beans
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 pound beef, cut in small pieces
1 cup onion, minced
1 cup tomato pulp
1 teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup water

Chili powder to taste

Soak the beans overnight in cold water. Drain and cook until tender in boiling salted water. Brown the meat in hot oil, add pimento and onion, and fry until the onion is light brown. Add tomato pulp, water, salt and paprika, and simmer until meat is very tender. Add chili powder to taste. Drain the beans, add them to the meat and let simmer for a few minutes. Serve with crisp toast or crackers.

Modernizing the Home

By Alma Zaisa

Dear Miss Zaisa:

Here is quite a problem that I would very much appreciate your solving for me. What is the coziest and most comfortable way a room can be furnished? The room is to be used for a combination bed and living room. There are four such rooms and I checked below the layout as regards the windows, doors, closets, fireplaces, etc.

I might just as well tell you the whole story. Mother and I have taken a small brownstone house with the idea of renting about four of the rooms. I can't afford very expensive furniture and some of it will have to be picked up "second hand." However, the rooms must be furnished in good taste. Quite a problem, isn't it?

A daybed, chest, two large overstuffed chairs, desk, a few small tables, a drop-top table, bookshelves—is that enough, or what else? Of course, cushions and lamps; possibly a good picture or two. There is a fireplace in each room; could that be the main point?

Another thing, I am going to have creamy colored curtains throughout the house, is that all right? Also, what kind of inside curtains would you suggest—cretonne, chintz or what? (Please remember I have to be economical.) Also, what kind of covers for the daybed? Should they, if chintz, match the curtains?

(Miss) E. B. G.

A Semi-Business Problem

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

CONCERNED as we are with so many hundreds—yes, thousands—of purely home-making problems, it is good to publish one that deals with the business side of things.

Miss G speaks of the need to buy some pieces "second hand." In that case we do not know just what to say. Used furniture can be very lovely . . . or it can be unappealing . . . depending upon the purchaser's ability to recognize good design and good workmanship. These cunning little rooms with their individual fireplaces really deserve interesting treatment. Good schemes and tasteful furniture will help so much to keep them rented to desirable tenants.

To begin with, we would not have all four rooms alike or in one definite period. From a psychological standpoint variety is too valuable. Our plans include one room that is Colonial in feeling; one modern scheme; one done in the French Provincial manner; one with painted furniture . . . and widely different color schemes for each.

ROOM NO. 1

THE scheme for this large room is more or less colonial. Soft pale green is the color recommended for walls and woodwork; prune-colored plain carpet for the floor. For draperies, an inexpensive but well-designed chintz having a gold background and a floral pattern in colors harmonizing with the prune and green. There should be one pair of curtains and a valance at the bay window and one pair for the small window.

In the alcove a studio couch would fit better than a daybed; the cover to be of inexpensive old-gold fabric in a heavy substantial weave; pillows in plain colors found in the curtain design. We would slip-cover both Chair No. 1 we would have upholstered in a modern Rodier fabric showing gray or beige tones; chair No. 2 in beige or gray cotton velvet; curtains to be of modern printed voile in shades of henna, beige and gray, or if Miss G. wishes to continue the cream glass curtains throughout the house, she may use side curtains of modern cotton fabric having a design in the colors named. One colorful picture in keeping with the scheme is needed above the sofa; plain, unframed mirrors set above the fireplace mantel shelf would help to increase the apparent size of the room. For the screen an inexpensive wooden frame may be bought and lacquered silver with a modern design in colors. The round table by the window could also be an unpainted modern piece lacquered silver.

THIS is to be a blue room furnished in French Provincial manner. Pale blue-gray walls will give a charming background for

ROOM NO. 2

THE second and smallest room could be very effectively done in modern fashion. We would paper the walls, using some inexpensive modern paper in three shades of beige or gray. easy chairs in the chintz and have a green seat pad for the desk chair. Often it is possible to find nice easy chairs at second hand and where slip-covers are used it does not matter about the original upholstery.

Restoring the Painting

ONE housewife, while doing the fall cleaning decided to discard an old painting, but a neighbor advised her to give the painting a bath. She washed it thoroughly with a sponge and water and was surprised at the improvement.

Then sister remembered that one of the girls restored an old faded painting by touching up the darkened lights of the painting. She weighed out one part dioxide of hydrogen and eight parts of water and mixed them, then with this and a sable brush she proceeded with the retouching.

The housewife followed the instructions and the painting occupies a prominent place on the wall and has several times been mistaken for a new picture.

NOTRE DAME'S STAY-AT-HOMES

THE Notre Dame football team will play four of its games at home this season. Here's how Knute Rockne broke the news to his boys:

ROCKNE—Fellows of the varsity squad, this looks like a great season for Notre Dame. We've got the material, our first string line is experienced and we'll play four of our games on the home field.

CANDIDATE A—What? We ain't going to do ten solid weeks of traveling?

ROCKNE—Not this season, boys. Four of our games are right here in South Bend.

CANDIDATE A—If I'd known that, I'd have joined the Marine Corps instead of coming out for football. I wanted to see the world.

ROCKNE—At first it will be hard for you boys not to be traveling, but I'll break you in easy. Every week I'll show you five reels of Burton Holmes.

CANDIDATE B—Look here, coach, scheduling four games right here on the home grounds is practically the same as making us play miniature football.

ROCKNE—I know it, boys, and I'm sorry. But you know Uncle Knute is getting old and he's spent his last fifteen years in a lower berth. He wants to hang around home more.

CANDIDATE C—It's kind of tough on us, though, coach. I came here to college at a great sacrifice, because I thought it would be better than a cook's tour.

ROCKNE—You'll soon get used to home cooking, son.

CANDIDATE C—Well, I was expecting to do most of my eating in dining cars and I'm sure disappointed.

CANDIDATE D—This news is certainly a shock to me, too. If we're only playing a few out-of-town games, I might as well trade in my wardrobe trunk for a suitcase.

ROCKNE—That's what you'd better do.

CANDIDATE E—Staying in South Bend is going to affect my playing, coach. You know I can't get any sleep without that little green hammock alongside my bed.

ROCKNE—I know these home games are tough on you Notre Dame veterans. But if you hire a colored boy to shine your shoes every night and put 'em under your bed in the morning, maybe you'll get used to staying home part of the time.

CANDIDATE A—How are you going to get any crowds out at our new stadium, coach? These South Bend people never saw us anywhere except at the depot. They won't know how to get out to the football field.

ROCKNE—We're having maps printed.

CANDIDATE B—Don't we get any

The Beauty Shop

Making Up Your Type

HAVING discussed at length the beautification of the three main types of skin under which all skins must be classified, let us now consider types of beauty and the best means of expressing each through make-up art. As a rule we do not like to speak about "types" of beauty, since you and I are not types but individuals. At least we should strive to be individuals. Nevertheless, expediency demands that we talk types when we talk make-up.

You know, it is simply amazing how few women there are who bother to have their powder, rouge, lipstick and eye decoration harmonize with their complexions—or even with each other. There are blondes, positively brilliant types, going about hiding their light under a bushel of brunoil powder, and brunettes masquerading as blondes—nor do we refer to anything so obvious as bleached hair—and killing all their rich, dark fascination. Why? Because some fashion note or some advertisement says that pomegranate rouge is the rage, or brick dust powder the smartest thing in Paris. The same old conflict between La Mode and becomingness—only each season it grows less heated in the clothes field.

The fragile blonde who does her lips in orangey reds when she should use coral or a rose tone is simply killing her picture. And the golden brunettes who think to make an Irish beauty of herself with the aid of pale cream powder is deceiving no one but herself—besides throwing her rich warm natural loveliness to the winds.

Then there is such a thing as getting into a make-up rut. For example, there is the girl who found "just the right shades" of rouge and powder two years ago, and sticks to them. That shows character but not a great deal of cleverness, when you stop to consider that our creators of exterior decoration are learning more and more about the blending of make-up tints every day, and that this season's Rachel, for instance, is far more flattering than last season's.

So, too, with rouges, lipsticks, maniacs, eye shadow and eye crayons. Subtler, more complex tones are evolving all the time, tones that actually give something to the natural tones of the skin, lips and eyes, instead of merely harmonizing with them.

To achieve really individual make-up ensembles, the lady with a flair for the different will not rest content with ready-made shades of powder; she will blend her own, choose harmonizing tones that become her and playing with them until she has created a tone that flatters her to the nth degree.

long trips at all this season? ROCKNE—Well, we jump to New York for a game, and then we've got that final game in Los Angeles.

CANDIDATE C—That isn't long enough to make even a third-string substitutes train sick.

ROCKNE—I know it, boys, but it's the best I can do.

CANDIDATE D—I know these home games will drive me crazy. Just imagine waking up every morning, looking out the window and finding yourself in South Bend.

ROCKNE—If it will make it any easier, I'll have a spur track built right alongside your dormitory window.

CANDIDATE D—That would help. ROCKNE—Now, boys, don't get discouraged. These home games are just an experiment. If the team goes to pieces from staying at home, next year we'll challenge Alaska Institute, Honolulu College and University of Tokyo.

Mrs. Hoover gave a miniature doll house to the Girl Scouts. This puts it strictly up to Herbert to send a miniature camp fire or at least a box of matches to the Boy Scouts.

Police found an Iowa speakeasy located in a freight elevator. The customers were let in on the ground floor and sold out at the top.

Buy gloves with what it saves

It isn't necessary to pay 50¢ or more to get quality in a dentifrice. Listerine Tooth Paste, made by the makers of Listerine, comes to you in a large tube at 25¢. Note how it cleans, loosens and protects your teeth. More over it saves you approximately $3 a year over 50¢ dentifrices. Buy things you need with that saving—gloves are merely a suggestion. School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping." Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.
